ABOUT

Biblical Principles of Government is a comprehensive worldview course taught by IPS Founder, Mike Winther. As hinted in the title, the course explores the biblical basis for the proper functions and limitations of government.

Contrary to popular opinion, government is not free to do whatever it wishes. As an institution ordained by God, Scripture sets forth the boundaries by which government is authorized to act and for what purposes.

Our job as Christians and citizens is to know these biblically-defined boundaries and then, even more importantly, to hold government officials accountable to them. This is the primary way to restrain tyranny and unleash liberty—a defining hallmark of Christianity.

This course covers government, history, economics, education, charity, and the proper role in society of the family, the church, and the state. It also covers good and bad decision-making processes and teaches you to identify which is which.

This is an adult course, but it is still well suited for high school and junior high students. This is also a popular family course that creates many positive family discussions, so we encourage whole families to take it together. Homework is very light, but by special arrangement, a more thorough and rigorous homework load can be assigned for those seeking school credit. Thousands of people have gone through this course. You won't be disappointed. Register today!

TESTIMONIES

I have been fortunate enough to be able to take a trip to the Holy Land, to take a 'Heritage' tour with Marshall Foster, and visit many of our country's historical landmarks. This 10 week IPS course is far more valuable than all those other things combined.

My wife and I signed up for this class because we felt obligated to gain a better understanding of how Scripture intersects with government, public policy, and economics.

It's good medicine for apathy to politics and government class.
